Who we are

Cardno is an international firm dedicated to the social, economic and physical development of communities. We engage in international development as a holistic, multidisciplinary and integrated process. Strengthened by our geographic and market diversity, we are committed to providing innovative and integrated solutions that create opportunities for significant, lasting change in emerging economies. Partnering with multilateral and bilateral donors, private clients, governments and communities to develop sustainable solutions to complex challenges, we work with local counterparts to achieve meaningful impact.

As a global development consulting firm, we assist clients in developing local solutions to global problems

Our team

Cardno's international development services team includes a range of specialists who plan, design, manage and implement sustainable projects. We have specialised international development offices in Australia, Belgium, Indonesia, Kenya, Myanmar, Papua New Guinea, the Philippines, the United Arab Emirates, the United Kingdom and the United States. Additionally, our international development services team routinely draws on expertise from Cardno colleagues specialising in engineering and environmental services—creating unique collaborative opportunities to engage with multifaceted clients and programs. Together, we form a strong multidisciplinary team with a wealth of knowledge, expertise and passion for improving the physical, economic, and social environments that underpin communities around the world.
