Cardno Grogan Richards were part of the project team involved in the development of traffic management for the athletes village for the 2006 Commonwealth Games in Melbourne. Advice extended to various components including a temporary bus interchange for the movement of athletes, access locations and control points, with advice provided both within the site and on the surrounding road network.

Cardno Grogan Richards have been the preferred consultant for traffic management for the Victorian Spring Racing Carnival at Flemington Race Course in Australia every year since 2001. Our services are sought for each of the major events at the international carnival including Derby Day, Melbourne Cup, Oaks Day and Stakes Day. Each of these events typically comprise of crowds of 100,000 people.

The operational management developed for these events tackle traffic movement on the surrounding road network as well as the internal operations of the site. Solutions are provided to manage the movement to / from the site by all modes of transport including co-ordination with public transport authorities operating trains, bus and trams routes.

Staff from our offices also attend the events and monitor / manage operations from a control centre in conjunction with the Victorian police and the Victorian Racing Club.
